

Notre Dame vs Alabama: A Prophecy?

Today is the National Championship Football Game between Notre Dame and Alabama and the question is: will Almighty God use this as another important prophetic event about Barack Obama? As you know many times in the recent past He has used sporting events to reveal to us that Barack Obama is the Leopard as found in Daniel chapter number 7. And as you know the nickname for Alabama is "Bama" so, in this game, will Alabama represent O-Bama?

And of course, their foe in this game is Notre Dame which is the leading Catholic institution in the country. Will Notre Dame represent the American Bishops? And of course, as you should know by now, the American Catholic Bishops and the Obama Administration are locked in a tremendous struggle over the HHS Mandate. This mandate requires all institutions, not just Catholic, to provide free contraceptives, free sterilizations, and free abortifacient drugs to all their employees.

Now, if this game is prophetic I want to give you bad news. I do not think the American Bishops have the supernatural moxie to defeat the Leopard. Therefore, I am predicting that Alabama will win this football game. If, on the other hand, this is just another ordinary football game, Go Irish!