

World War 3 will be a Gog Magog War

On this program I want to talk about World War 3, and how it is, in fact, a "Gog-Magog" war. In Saint John's Book of Revelation, he speaks about three different wars, but he only labels one as a "Gog-Magog" war, and that is the last war which occurs after the thousand years of peace, in other words, after the Millennium.

Now, this last war is the only war that Saint John labels as a "Gog-Magog" war. But, I think we will find out, on this program, that all three wars are "Gog-Magog" types of war. In chapter 20, Saint John writes "And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison." (These years refer to the Millennium). "And shall go out and deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them together for battle."

This is the last war in the book of Revelation, and, it is the only war which Saint John describes as a "Gog-Magog" war. Now, let's look at the war which Saint John calls "Armageddon". In chapter 16 Saint John writes "For they are the spirits of demons working miracles, which go forth unto the kings of the whole earth to gather them together to the battle of that great day of God Almighty." This refers to the Antichrist gathering the Kings of the earth, that is all the leaders of the world's nations, to Israel, to battle against Jesus. "All the kings" INCLUDES the nation of Israel, which will be one of the nations which battles against Jesus.

And in verse 16, "And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew language Armageddon". Notice that Saint John does not call this a "Gog-Magog" war. He calls it "Armageddon", which leads to a very interesting question. The question is, why does Saint John call this battle Armageddon? Because this same battle, between Jesus and the Antichrist, is called a "Gog-Magog" war in the Book of Ezekiel. Now, Saint John certainly knew that Ezekiel called this war, "Gog-Magog", but he deliberately called his last war, "Gog-Magog", and he changed the name of this war to "Armageddon".

I believe, the reason Saint John changed the name, was to indicate that he does not necessarily call a "Gog-Magog" war a "Gog-Magog" war, and that means, it is very likely that the first war he describes, which is World War 3, is also a "Gog-Magog" war. In other words, if Saint John declined to name the Armageddon war, as a "Gog-Magog" War, when it clearly is, from Ezekiel, a "Gog-Magog" war, then World War 3 is also a "Gog-Magog" war. Saint John describes World War 3 in chapter 17. "And the ten horns which you saw on the beast," (this beast is the "scarlet beast" which represents Communism) "these shall hate the harlot", (the harlot is Babylon, in other words, Britain, and America, and the West) "and shall make her desolate, and shall eat her flesh and shall burn her with fire". As we shall see, this "fire", is a one hour devastation, almost certainly, nuclear war. And Saint John continues, "Thus with violence shall that great city Babylon be thrown down and found no more".

So, why is it important that we know this is also a "Gog-Magog" war? Because it will help us to identify who the "scarlet beast" is. The terms "Gog" and "Magog" are really not that difficult to identify. "Gog" will be the leader of these nations. At Armageddon, he is the Antichrist. During the last "Gog-Magog" war, after the Millennium, he will be a post-cursor of the Antichrist.

And at World War 3, seven years before Armageddon, he will be a precursor of the Antichrist. Now, "Magog" is a specific geographical region; it lies on the border between Russia and Iran. "Magog" therefore symbolizes a coalition between Communist and Muslim nations. The "scarlet beast", with the ten horns, which will defeat the United States, Britain, and the Capitalist West, is represented by this coalition called "Magog". This "scarlet beast" is also known as the seventh beast, "the beast that was, and is not, and goes to destruction".

The term "is not", refers to the collapse of Communism. Following World War 3, Communism will be revived as the eighth beast, and its headquarters will move from Moscow to Rome, and at that time, the European Union will give its kingdom, that is Rome, to the beast. And as always, remember, God does not reveal the future to scare us, but to prepare us.
